Helen Holmes at Grand.

The following is the thrilling story that will be depicted upon the screen at the Grand theatre next Sunday, when Helen Holmes appears in the great railroad drama, "The Girl and The Game":

Frolicking in the park at a seaside resort, Helen, the little daughter of old General Holmes, ex-army officer and railroad man is imperiled by a swiftly approaching locomotive. The engine is not one of the giant iron horses of today, but a miniature which stands perhaps four feet in height, from the rails to the top of its smokestack. Thanks to the bravery of an eight year old urchin, who snatches her from the rails, Helen is saved from injury.

Years later, Helen enters to the station to meet her father returning from a business trip. Coming down the mountain side, the brakes of a heavy freight train become disordered. Ever gaining in speed, the runaway train rambles on, on down the mountain slope. In a flash, Helen sees her father's peril, for General Holmes in his private car is but a few miles away, literally riding into death, for the runaway freight must crash into the oncoming train that bears Helen's father. Cool-headed despite her great fear, Helen leaps astride her horse, Rocket, spurting the animal on, she leads him straight for the railroad bridge, thinking that she can cross and throw a switch that will divert the runaway freight onto an unused siding. On she gallops and is halfway across the bridge, when the huge span opens. Summoning all her courage, Helen rides headlong to the brink; then, still astride her horse, she plunges from the height into the swirling waters below. Horse and rider disappear for a moment, then strike out bravely for the opposite shore. Meanwhile, a scout mile separates the oncoming passenger and the runaway freight. The bridge is slammed back into position. Helen gallops nimbly up the cinder bed, and with all her strength throws the switch and the huge freight, diverted, crashes into a stream of empty box cars, as her father's train thunders by in safety.

But one man had stuck to the flying freight, and he is badly injured. Helen rushes the blood and cinders from his scratched up face and recognizes her childhood rescuer, George Storm by name, now a locomotive fireman. Her father's private car is stopped and General Holmes dashes to his daughter's side. He catches her in his arms and Helen is led to where Robert Seagrave, a nephew of General Holmes' lifelong friend, Amos Rhineland, is waiting. "General," says Seagrave coldly, "your daughter seems to take a real interest in the engine man." Helen looks deliberately around, but whatever her thoughts may be, she makes no reply.

A new, two-act chapter of this great railroad film novel will appear each Sunday at the Grand.

The Beloved Vagabond.

(The First Six-Reel American Drama in Colors) A Pathecolor Gold Rooster Play adapted from the famous book of William J. Locke—featuring Edwin Arden, supported by an excellent cast, including Bliss Milford and Kathryn Browne-Decker. The excellence of this play makes it deserving of special mention. The exquisite coloring, a meaty story, wonderful acting and direction and excellent settings, give to the exhibitor an attraction worthy of advance advertising. Being the story of Gaston de Nerae, later Paragot, who returns from France to England with the highest honors that the French Academy can bestow on an architect, and prepares for his marriage to Joanna, his cousin. But through the perfidy of another suitor of the girl, he loses her. After a period of grief, he loses her. After Augustus Smith, and they set out on a vagabond journey. He returns and meets Joanna, but they realize that they are not for each other. Paragot then goes forth and finds something in a cottage that he failed to find in a mansion. See it at the Grand next Monday and Tuesday.

Alhambra Sunday.

A "moral play" which has been endorsed by every prominent minister, social worker and moral welfare association in the country—that is "The Blindness of Virtue," the film adaptation of which play is to be offered to the patrons of The Alhambra theatre on Sunday. This picture, produced by The Essanay Company, and featuring Miss Edna Maye and Bryant Washburn, illustrates the dangers of ignorance to young girls and sternly calls the attention to the mothers of the country to their greatest duty of motherhood. The superintendent of the Vigilance Committee of Toronto, Can., endorses the stage production of this saying: "This play is worth 100,000 sermons. I wish every parent in Toronto could have been driven to attend at the point of the bayonet."

At the Gem Sunday.

"His Wife," featuring Geraldine O'Brien in a great emotional drama. The story of two brothers, one of whom, in trying to secretly protect the wife of the other, arouses the jealousy of his own wife, who as a result of a series of suspicious situations, loses her reason and wanders away from home. After several years, her sanity restored, the wife returns and finds her husband kneeling at her grave. Realizing that he had believed her dead and that her suspicions were unfounded, her love for her husband comes back and the two are reunited.

German Headquarters in the Field Resembles Management of Large Business and Not a Military Camp

(Associated Press Correspondent)

A town in Serbia, Dec. 15.—A general headquarters in the field of the German army resembles closely the management of a large business. The officers are branch managers whom convention and necessity has stuck into uniforms, and the private soldiers take the place of employees under the office. For their stereotyped garb there is no better reason than that combatants, according to military law, must indicate their status by distinctive dress. Beyond that a general headquarters is not a military institution in the popular conception of the term. It is purely an administrative office constantly organizing and reorganizing.

War on a scale as the European struggle has reached becomes, by the huge demands it makes, by the pressure it exerts upon participating individuals, and by the recurrence of the necessity for doing a certain thing, a business. Even the head of the group, the commander, the tactician and strategist, is again and again confronted with the same demands of the military situation; there are times when he must leave minor tactical details to his staff officers, and all phases of his work which recur too often, and are, therefore, commonplace, he must leave in the hands of subordinates. Altogether, general headquarters is, in other words, an aggregate of trained managers and workers, which by virtue of its discipline among all concerned, would be a dangerous competitor to a civilian organization in the same field.

Such is the impression one gains at the general headquarters of Field Marshal von Mackensen, presiding at the general headquarters of the Austro-Hungarian army in this establishment everything moves noiselessly, frictionlessly, positively, at a speed which is not expressed in revolutions of machinery, but in the pulsebeats of a great, expansion-seeking, and seemingly inexhaustible force.

The character of an army is best judged by conditions prevailing at base headquarters. The Associated Press correspondent spent two hours at the one in question. The captain in charge, a young man of about 36, presided in an inner office. Several non-commissioned officers sat at tables in an outer room. Officers and men came for this and that, usually addressing a sergeant. The brusque demeanor towards subordinates with which the German officer has been associated was wholly absent. Several officers wanted wheel transportation.

"Sorry sir! Note available at this moment," the sergeant would say. One of the officers thought he would have to get a wagon, no matter how. This attitude took the case out of the sergeant's hands. Just then the base commander entered the outer room. The officer turned to him with an introduction of himself and a vigorous clasp of his heels.

"Very sorry! Have no wagons here just now," said the base chief in a friendly tone which for all of its warmth told the other that the information given by the sergeant should have sufficed.

A major entered. He had been sent from Berlin to superintend the harvest of the grapes which were on the verge of rotting on the hillside, but whose juice would be welcome to the wounded in the hospitals. It seemed that he had caused a large and suitable cellar to be cleared for the barrels in which the juice was to be stored. During the night a cavalry organization had needed shelter for its horses and had used the cellar for this purpose. The major was indignant.

"That will happen," said the captain. "Get the cellar cleaned again, and then we'll station a guard there."

The incident was settled. But the major had more trouble. He did not have men enough to gather the grapes and what men he had were none too proficient.

"Very well! We can fix that. Ask Berlin to send you a hundred or so of landsturm men from some town in the immediate or along the Rhine. They would enjoy the trip."

The major said he would do that and left fully satisfied. The campaign in Serbia has been disorganized enough to have soured the disposition of anybody. It has fallen constantly, and men figure on longer on the absence of mud, but on how little there is. Everybody reproaches when it is only ankle deep, and roads are called bad only when the slush runs into the top-boots from above.

Conversation at table in the mess started and ended with mud. A train officer knew his business in coping with the thick, adhesive Serbian "gumbo" to the last detail. Somebody wanted to know of him why oxen were better than horses as draught animals on muddy roads. The questioned was a guard cavalry officer and inwardly resented the "trivial" spoke of horses.

"Simple," explained the train officer. "Due to the construction of the hoofs of both animals. When the horse steps into stiff mud, its hoof remains as big when it is pulled out as it was when set down. The mud, meanwhile, has closed over the hoof, and every time the animal must exert a pull of about five kilograms (10 lbs.) to get its foot out. With the ox it is different, because the hoof, being cloven, opens on the downward motion and closes on the upward motion. It is smaller when pulled out than it was when set down. In addition the weight of the body is better distributed in the ox. The officer had never before moved anything by means of oxen. But a few days contact with the animal had made him theoretically and practically an expert in the handling of "ox" trains.

Away from their duties the German officers proved most agreeable companions, men who could land and accept a joke. Even the older men took an almost boyish interest in the witty and animated conversation of their youthful mess mates. Everybody seemed glad to be under a roof and have a meal before him and a glass of Munich beer and a cigar in prospect.

They were not tired of the war, it seemed. The job in hand would be thoroughly done, they said. The opinion of the neutral public and press did not bother them anymore, since, as they felt, Germany and her allies could not do anything to please the neutrals.

"We depended upon ourselves," said a colonel. "And while we value the opinion of strangers, have valued them too much in Germany in recent years, we have come to the point where we don't care, because caring on our part has not helped us any. If the world chooses to believe we are barbarians, then the world must and no doubt will, please itself. But I say that it cannot influence our actions or the outcome of the war when people call us bad names. We have our faults, no doubt enough of them, in fact, but we also have our good qualities and the right to defend ourselves by all the means admissible in modern warfare."

As the colonel spoke, the hum of conversation ceased. Heads along the table nodded silent approval. "The opinion of prejudiced neutrals be damned," said a young lieutenant, who thus recorded what may be looked upon as the extreme view held in the German army on this subject.

NEW YEAR IS WELCOMED BY ALL NEWARK

The Hall of Time was filled to its capacity—laughter and good fellowship reigned. The throng intoxicated with the hilarity of the occasion, throbbed with suppressed excitement and throughout the mammoth gathering there existed an atmosphere of expectancy. The hour was 11:55. As the hands on the clock slowly approached the midnight hour, the crowd seemed to grow restless. This changed to solemnity as through the door at the rear of the hall, an old man, bent with the weight of sorrowing times, war, and millions of catastrophes, entered and slowly wended his way to the front of the hall.

At his side strode a youngster, symbolic of good cheer, prosperity and beaming with the light of many promises for better times and universal peace. At 11:59 the old man sank to the floor. Throughout the vast throng a deadly silence prevailed. As the clock chimed the hour of 12, the youngster drew himself up with a proud light shining in his eyes, while his companion, the old man, slowly faded into obscurity. The old year 1915 was dead—and the whole world paid homage to the New King—1916.

Newark was the scene of many New Year watch parties, social entertainments, devotional services, and as the old year passed out and the New Year was born, whistles, bells and every noise making device in the city welcomed the change. The various fraternal and social organizations in the city observed the occasion with dancing, and entertainments, while in many homes slumber parties were in vogue.

The last fire alarm in the old year was sounded at 6:40 Friday evening, and called the department to the Sigler garage in South Fourth street, where one of the taxi machines was ablaze. The fire, which caused only a small loss, was due to the backfiring of the machine's engine. Employees of the garage by the use of chemicals, succeeded in saving the car.

The first alarm of the New Year was a myth, and was sent in from the vicinity of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad shops, at 12:05 Saturday morning.

I hope that the New Year will bring to us good health, happiness and prosperity, and that it may also bring to the great property which we serve and with which we are proud to be connected, a larger measure of success and with an increased opportunity for all.

DAYTON RESTORES HURBAUGH TO JOB IN BELATED ORDER

As the last official act of his two years' administration as director of public safety, Carl P. Dayton last night rendered a decision finding Officer Ed Hurbaugh not guilty of charges preferred against him when he was suspended two weeks ago by Police Chief Sheridan. With the decision was an order reinstating Hurbaugh to his position as patrolman.

Director Dayton conducted a hearing last Monday night in his office at police headquarters. Eight witnesses were examined, among them being Councilman Knauber who admitted that whatever evidence he could give against Hurbaugh would be hearsay.

Yesterday Dayton was uncertain whether he would hand down his decision in the case before the close of the new year, according to a statement to the Advocate. It came last night about 8 o'clock, however.

LONDON CELEBRATES IN A GRAVER MOOD

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, Jan. 1.—Owing to the drink restrictions and the apprehension concerning air raids, rather than to any lack of confidence in the war, however long it may be, London celebrated New Years eve in a much graver mood than customary. The watch-night services were poorly attended and in many churches and clubs were unusually quiet and there was an absence of the familiar display at big hotels.

The only point where there was an air of festivity was the annual gathering of Scotchmen in front of St. Paul's Cathedral, where the crowds displayed their usual vivacity.

Resolve for the Present;
Not for Indefinite Future

There are times in the lives of all when it is well to pause for just a little and take a survey of the past, present and future. The retrospection should not be accompanied by a morbid repining; the present should neither be viewed with exalted self-complacency nor acrid dissatisfaction while a look into the future should only be taken with a determination to accept its responsibilities with a calmness and resolute assurance that strength will be given to discharge them with credit.

It does no good to brood over the past; neither does it always benefit one to make good resolutions for the future. The present is the only atom of infinite time which we can call our own. It should be our aim to improve that, and make it serve the ends for which we may have striven in vain, or toward which we look in doubt.

We are reminded here of a bit of Hindu philosophy which has the sanction of the Jewish as well as the Messianic as given in the Scriptures. It follows:

"That land where no living thing hath habitation is called Yesterday.
"That where no human being hath ever set foot is called Tomorrow.
"The Highest Mountain in the world is called Success.

"Few reach the top, except those who seize the Spirit of the Mountain, Opportunity, in passing;
She carries upward all those who are her.

The Greatest Desert is human. It hath many oases where the weary pilgrim may rest and refresh himself. They are Home, Family, Love, Charity, Gratitude.

Pagan though it be, Christ probably had the same thought in mind when he said: "Take no thought of the morrow," and David realizing the futility of depending for consolation or inspiration upon the past puts the idea into words as follows:

"For all our days are passed away in thy wrath; we spend our years as a tale that is told."

Can there be a more vivid conception of finality than a "tale that is told?"

But, "now is the accepted time," has authority. It means something to every one who has striven and failed; who has had hopes shattered, ideals crumbled, friends prove false and seemingly every desire thwarted.

However one may be misjudged, his motives distorted through the medium of another's misinformation, jealousy, or conscious self-righteousness it cannot permanently harm.

him, or stop a determined progress in virtue.

He should on this New Year's day make no resolution for an indefinite future, over which he cannot exercise the slightest influence, nor look with discouragement upon the past, but resolve for TODAY, to think the right, to LIVE the right and thus to incarnate and BE the right.

What better resolutions could any one in Newark make today than the following quoted from Charlotte Stetson Perkins:

"To keep my health! To do my work! To live!
"To see to it I grow and gain and give!
"Never to look behind me for an hour;
"To wait in weakness, and to walk in power;
"But always fronting onward toward the light.
"Always and always facing toward the right.
"Robbed, starved, defeated, fallen, wide astray—
"On, with what strength I have! Back to the way."

And again these from an author whose name we do not know:

"Take a fresh start each morning. Refuse to be trampled by history, legend or tradition of even the day before. Stand on the firm ground of yesterday's intention, not on the quicksand of its result. We are but infants in the kindergarten of the universe. By-and-by we shall be stronger better, nobler. Now we are as we are, and if we really TRY, we do wrong to worry over having failed to accomplish all we wished and attempted. We are only concerned with getting up as quickly and gracefully as possible and getting into line again after each fall. We will be more sure of our footing as the years go on."

Such resolutions the Advocate recommends to its every reader, accompanied by the wish for a New Year filled with happiness and contentment.

Senator Pomerene.

In the week immediately following the opening of the present congress, more than ever was made manifest the important place occupied by United States Senator Alton Pomerene in the scheme of government. The high vote of compliment paid him by his colleagues in a situation arising over contest for senate leadership should cause those who have criticized him to pause. There is no other member of the United States senate whose consistent support of the cause of Democracy and of a Democratic Democratic president should entitle him to more consideration. There is no other member whose consistent advocacy of right principles entitles him to more respect and admiration. In Ohio we have learned to be critical of our public servants. We have submitted Alton Pomerene to scrutiny. At times we may have been inclined to be harsh with him, not understanding. But he has met the test of criticism and scrutiny. Investigation of his record shows that he has made good. In Washington he is one of the big men and in Ohio we are beginning to learn that this is true.

In committee assignments of the present congress Senator Pomerene retains the chairmanship of the committee on civil service and re-trenchments. He is continued as a member of the committees on banking and currency, privileges and elections, manufacturers, District of Columbia, foreign relations and interstate commerce. These committees are all important ones, and especially demand service of men with keen business sense. With the experience in the last congress which accomplished more than has any one congress since the war of the rebellion, Senator Pomerene is due to give an exceptionally good account of himself to his state.

The people of Ohio will profit by continuing Senator Pomerene as their chief agent at Washington. The nation knows him and admires him. The Democratic voters realize this and know their party needs Senator Pomerene. He is entitled to a renomination without opposition and to re-election.

What the Small Advertiser Can Do.

People who do a small business sometimes say it is of no use for them to advertise, since their notices will be obscured by the much bigger space taken by larger concerns. That point of view is often the principal reason why their business remains small, but the remedy is in their own hands.

Their feeling does not accord with the every day experience of people who have made a study of the advertising game. In most newspapers there is a certain class of small notices that attract attention entirely out of proportion to the space taken.

The reason is apt to be that the proprietor of the store writes the ad himself. The proprietor of the bigger concern is apt to delegate the work to a subordinate, who may or may not do it well. But by taking a large space he gets public attention, even if no exceptional knack is shown in writing the copy.

It is a fact that no one can talk so well about a business as the proprietor himself. His mind is full of it, he sees the strong points of his line better than anyone else who does not know it as well, and he can really grow quite eloquent on this subject. If he will write the notice himself, he usually makes a good one, unless he commits the error of filling a small space with too much fine type.

If he feels he can afford only a small space, he should just pick out one or two things, describe them, and give the price. Every newspaper has specimens of advertising so well done in small space as to be exceedingly effective. It is not that any special wit or cleverness is shown. It is that the writer has simply put into them the same everyday wisdom that he will put into the terse talk with the customer in his store.

Done in this way, an advertisement has a flavor of everyday sense that interests people, and they turn to it as to a favorite feature. Many businesses that were small and obscure at the start have grown great and prosperous in this way.

After Christmas some merchants advertise their surplus stock, turn it into cash, and put in new goods. Others carefully lay the old stuff away until next year, without making any effort to turn it, and then they complain of dull times.

After denouncing the government for not making better military preparation, some employers of labor will proceed to turn down applicants for work because they want a little time off in summer to attend militia camp.

So far as we are able to observe the new year is quite like the old. But cheer up, this weather will not continue indefinitely. Sunshine is on its way.

Something for Poland.

(Columbus Dispatch.)
The three chief seats of war in Europe have been Belgium, Poland and Serbia. There the fighting has been fiercest and there the disaster most dire. Belgium early claimed American sympathy and still has it, relief being still given to its homeless non-combatants, many of whom are without necessary clothing and even the work by which they might provide and even the work by which they might provide themselves. Serbia's woes have been almost unparalleled in history, for, added to the ravages of war, there have been those of the plague which would have been much more terrible than they actually were, had it not been for the hospital and clothing relief provided in this country.

Poland has been raked back and forth by the contending armies till it is in ruins and its remaining people are scattered and wounded and shelterless and in sad straits for food and clothing. Torn asunder years ago for the glory of thrones, it has contributed soldiers to all the contending armies and, more than any other land, its people seem to be the victims of all belligerents.

Its sad condition has been recognized by the United States in the adoption of a resolution setting forth the facts and by the president who has appointed January 1, as a day upon which the people of this country may make contributions for the aid of the stricken Polish people. The wretchedness of these victims of the war makes a strong appeal to the sympathy of all and, if the agencies of giving are well organized, the result should be gratifying.

The Turbulent School.

(Philadelphia Ledger.)
Professor J. V. Seaton, of the department of English in the Kansas State university, contends that "most of the classics and mollycoddles that demean the youth of the nation now" have been brought up on the sex literature that is so disturbing a feature of modern reading. He makes a plea for the vigorous literature of a generation or two ago, when boyhood was accustomed to steep itself in "Nick Carter," "Deadwood Dick," "Seth Jones" and other heroes of the turbulent school.

The dime novel of the sixties and the seventies had numerous and energetic foes. Many a man now living remembers having been soundly thrashed for having one of these books under his seat at school. Now Professor Seaton, comparing them with the mush of today's reading, insists they are good, and that they "cultivated taste for 'Ivanhoe' and other classics."

Henry Ford once said that one of the things he had noticed was that "men crave action." It explains why certain cities are popular. They do things. It was the secret of "the turbulent school" of boy literature. Something was moving every moment. There was action and dramatic intensity. It did seem to produce a virile and healthy set of boys, lacking in any great numbers of sissies for mollycoddles.

But we can hardly go back to the crudities of "Nick Carter" and his friends. A new virile school should supply successors. Who will be the first in the field with a "Diamond Dick" with a grade school education? or a "Nick Carter" who has been through the high school? Here is a great literary opportunity.

Assimilation of the Germans

(Survey.)
Where is little Germany in New York city? In two important studies of school children in New York reports were made upon an equal number of children of several nationalities. In both cases after considerable effort has been given up, because the directors were unable to find a sufficient number of families in a single section who were close to the German standards of living and general surroundings as were the Italians, Jews, Irish, Bohemians and others to their home country stand.

Among 10,000 children seeking working papers in 1914-1915, the Germans foreign-born and native-born of foreign parentage, numbered about one-tenth of all. They constituted the fifth group in size, following the Jews, Italians, native-born of native parentage, and English-Irish-Scottish who ranged in the order named. The total number of Germans is larger than that of other distinctive groups, but the degree of assimilation seems to be the central question.

Spirit of the Press

Where It Costs.
"The average salary in our railroad shops and stores," says a young man, "is $15 a week. Our boys say it costs $3 of that to keep company with a girl. The movies, the lake, the jitneys, boat hire, an occasional show—it eats up the dimes. And the boys say it must be done—what we need in this town is a get-together club with the cost of courting cut down."—Woman's Home Companion.

Worth Considering.

That's More Like It.
Some correspondents think that Mrs. Galt "indorses the administration," but it looks to us more like the administrator.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Living in "Flats."
Sometimes small figures become as interesting in comparison as large ones, even in these days of immense measurements. We are told, for instance, that the great city of New York has this year 600 less private dwelling houses, including the boarding and lodging houses that were formerly residences, than it had last year. In thinking of the vastness of New York the matter of 600 things more or less, here or there, seems to trifling to mention. But the story it tells is, after all, rather remarkable in its significance of the constant growth of apartment, flat and tenement life; that so many families continue to turn from the separate and independent home, however pretentious or humble, to the living life.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Rippling Rhymes

Trouble.
Old Trouble hid, inside a tree, and muttered, "Now, dad blind me, I think that men won't bother me," they won't know where to find me." But men and women everywhere, from Tampa to Toronto, exclaimed, "The while they pawed the air, 'Oh, where has Trouble gone to?' When Trouble is no more about, we shed tears unbidden; let us so forth and hunt him out, wherever he is hidden." They got search warrants at the court, and lanterns trimmed with bunting, and every dame and every sport forth to the woods went hunting. They let all other business slide—naught else was so important, and through the forest dark and wide, they scrambled, where they'd ortn't. And oh, the rapture and the glee, when through a glade repairing, they found poor Trouble in his tree, and dragged him from it, swearing, triumphantly they homeward went, their fears and cares were over, for they had found the long-lost gent; henceforth they'd live in clover.

A Little Fun

Dodges Money.
"Do dance with Miss Lotta Daugh; she's just made of money!" "Yes, but she's not circulating here."—Harvard Lampoon.

An Ambition.
"It is the regret of her life that she has never been able to afford a trip abroad."
"Wants to see the world, does she?"
"It isn't that. But she has a remedy for seasickness that she is simply crazy to try."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Its Dimensions.
"No," said the editor, "we cannot use your poem."
"What," asked the poet; "is it too long?"
"Yes," hissed the editor. "It's too long and too wide, and too thick."—St. Louis Republic.

The fellow who always agrees with you on every question is merely waiting until his ax gets dull and then he'll ask you to turn the grindstone for him. When a woman is wearing too much jewelry and too much complexion you get the impression that she is about as real as the other.

The trouble with the man who wants you to stand and listen to his troubles is that he gets mad if you try to tell him your troubles.

There are lots of husbands who can't have bank accounts because their wives insist on having shop accounts. Any time you see a man wearing a black eye the betting is about 9,000,000 to 1 that he didn't get it by attending to his own business.

What has become of the old fashioned man who used to wipe his knife on a slice of bread and who thought that any man who needed two knives beside his plate was a dunder?

It is a waste of time for a married man to make up his mind to do a thing because his wife is liable to make up her mind that he isn't going to do it. One nice thing about being poor is that you do not have to frisk your roll every time you read that a new counterfeit $10,000 bill is in circulation.

Artillery duelling raged in the region north of Lys, in Belgium, at Nieuport and Wonneke. In the region of the Aisne the French artillery silenced some German guns, dispersing their infantry supports. A German attack near Verdun failed.

Around Steinbach the French launched attacks and claimed capture of positions which German reports denied. The Germans began a series of attacks, supported by heavy artillery, on the east of the Ezura and Bawka rivers, Poland.

In Galicia, around Gorlice, the Russians made energetic attacks and claimed to have repulsed furious counterattacks by the Austrians. Russia also reported victorious combats with the Turks in the Caucasus.

REMARKABLE WALL STREET YEAR CLOSED

IN SOME RESPECTS IT HAS NO
PARALLEL IN STREET'S HISTORY.

Most Disturbing Feature Was Decline of Anglo-French War
Bonds—New Stock Records.

(Associated Press Telegram)

New York, Jan. 1.—The year, in some respects the most remarkable in the history of Wall Street, closed with breadth and buoyancy. Specialties figured importantly in the week's operations, particularly the oil division, which rose to new records on rumors of deals and consolida-

Sentiment was materially accelerated by the prospective settlement of outstanding differences between this government and Austria, and that development more than any other contributing to the active market of the final session. Another important feature was the further brilliant exhibits of railway earnings for November, many of these assuming unprecedented proportions.

Metal shares were in further request on the continued rise in the metal to 23 cents, that quotation representing nature deliveries as the market has been swept bare of supplies for immediate consumption. Activity in the steel and iron industry continues at maximum of capacity, and higher premiums are being offered for early deliveries of many finished materials.

There was more foreign liquidation of our stocks and bonds by Europe, especially London, that market manifesting further uneasiness over the plan to mobilize American securities. Exchange on London was at its highest rates in months, partly as a result of the heavy offerings from abroad.

In the investment market almost the sole disturbing feature was the decline in Anglo-French war bonds to the low quotation of 93 7-8, at which level sales attained large proportions. This issue hardened slightly later, in sympathy with the better tone of the general market. Interest and dividend disbursements aggregating $360,000,000, will be made early in the new year and the release of this large sum is expected to find speedy reflection in a quickened demand for securities of the better class.

KING OF BELGIUM THANKS AMERICANS FOR XMAS SHOES

New York, Jan. 1.—One hundred thousand pairs of winter shoes have been sent to Belgium for distribution amongst destitute children, the expense being defrayed by the Dollar Christmas Fund of which Mr. Henry Clews, Broad street, New York is treasurer. The following cable was received from Monsieur Ingenbeck, state secretary to King Albert and Queen Elizabeth:

"To Henry Clews, treasurer of the Dollar Christmas Fund:—The king and queen have been deeply touched by the generous work you have undertaken and the success accom-

ONE DAY IN JAIL FOR FAILING TO READ NEWSPAPERS.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Osnabruck, Prussia, via London, Dec. 31.—11:59 p. m.—The court here has decided that the perusal of newspapers is now a duty of citizens.

Residents in a neighboring village sold a small quantity of wool contrary to regulations and pleaded in self-defense that the particular regulation was not placarded in the village as had been customary and appeared only in the newspapers, which they did not read. The court ruled that "persons who now read no newspapers act culpably and cannot plead ignorance of wartime regulations as justification."

The defendants were sentenced to a day in jail.

plished. Their majesties offer their congratulations and ask you and your fellow-workers to accept their heartiest thanks for the brotherly aid they are rendering to our unfortunate fellow-countrymen. Such marks of sympathy are truly consoling. Will you be good enough as treasurer of the Dollar Christmas Fund to express the acknowledgments of our sovereigns to all those who have been associated with you in your work of mercy for Belgian children? Very truly yours,

The above message was sent by mail, dated December 22, and was cabled to New York by the Belgian minister in London. Mr. Clews announced that the fund now exceeds $65,000 and in view of the pressing need for winter shoes for the little ones in Belgium he will be glad to acknowledge donations for a few weeks longer. The shoes are bought through the commission for relief in Belgium at wholesale rates and forwarded to Belgium free of charge. The commission has kindly undertaken to distribute the shoes amongst the poorest of the poor.

Put Stomach in Fine Condition

Says Indigestion Results From An Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Indigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescent and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

CRIES OF CHILD TELL NEIGHBORS OF WOMAN'S DEATH

Caldwell, Jan. 1.—Mrs. Edward McCowan of Caldwell was found dead at her home Thursday night about 10 o'clock by neighbors who were attracted by the cries of her five-year-old granddaughter, Hazel McCowan, who has been making her home with her grandmother since the death of her father, which occurred about a month ago. Heart trouble was supposed to have been the cause of her death.

QUIET NEW YEAR'S IN WASHINGTON; PRESIDENT ABSENT

(Associated Press Telegram)
Washington, Jan. 1.—New Year's Day in the national capital was unusually quiet with President Wilson away and congress in holiday recess. There was no reception at the White House in the absence of the president and his bride and the annual "diplomatic breakfast" by the secretary of state to the diplomatic corps was omitted. Secretary Lansing also was out of the city.

There were, however, the usual receptions at the homes of most of the members of the cabinet. In diplomatic circles also the day was observed with the usual exchange of greetings, though many of them were unable to meet old friends, because of being enemies, at least officially, because of the war.

New Year's greetings from all over the world reached the White House today, and were being forwarded to the president at Hot Springs.

EASTERN CHURCH DEVOTEES HAVE XMAS JANUARY 7

Christmas trees are still being sold at the various stores, although the sale of them is generally thought to be over with the celebration of Christmas on December 25. But with some many residents of foreign birth in the city the merchants hold the trees for the celebration of the Christmas of the orthodox religion of the Greek Catholic or Eastern which is held on January 7. This religious belief is held generally by those of Rumanian, Bulgarian, Serbian, Greek and Russian birth, while the Hungarians celebrate the Christmas of the 25th of December.

HARTMAN THEATER.
"Some Baby," one of the most laughable farces seen in New York during the present season, comes to the Hartman theater, Columbus, for an engagement of three days, commencing Monday, Jan. 10, with a matinee Wednesday.

It is one of the funniest farces seen in years, the three acts being brim full of ingenious situations revolving about the search for the elixir of youth by an eccentric old professor. Jefferson de Angelis appears in the role of the old scientist. "Some Baby" is "some play," presented in "some" style, by "some" cast.

One of the most notable engagements of the entire present season will be the appearance at the Hartman, Columbus, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, January 13, 14 and 15, of the distinguished English actress, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, and her London company, in George Bernard Shaw's romantic comedy, "Pygmalion."

Mrs. Campbell, who is regarded as the world's greatest English speaking actress, interprets the role of a cockney flower girl, who is molded as the play progresses, by an eccentric theorist, into a most beautiful and attractive young woman, with the appearance and manners, except for occasional lapses, of a duchess. "Pygmalion" has scored one of the greatest hits of the New York season, and is duplicating its metropolitan popularity in every city in which it is presented.

Wallace Diment, Emerson Brillhart, Harry Vogelmeier and Wallace Davidson attended the New Year's Eve celebration at the Virginia grill room at Columbus.

"Practice with Science" is the motto of the Royal Agricultural Society of England.

FOUR FOXES ARE CAPTURED IN BIG DRIVE YESTERDAY

Zanesville, Jan. 1.—Five foxes were shy enough to skip out of the circle of death in Monroe township, where 233 men engaged in a big fox drive Friday. Four animals were killed, three by hunting dogs, while the other one was clubbed to death by several husky young farmers.

The hunters covered a territory of about 20 miles, and the "hunters" started at the edge of the township and worked toward Cuyahoga. With hundreds of dogs barking furiously and foxes running hither and thither trying to escape from the circle of hunters, the drive lasted for three hours, or until about noon.

BIG DECREASE IN REVENUE BUT AN EXPORT INCREASE
(Associated Press Telegram)
New York, Jan. 1.—A gain of $50,000,323 in merchandise exports with a decrease of $24,332,748 in customs receipts for the year 1915, as compared with 1914, is shown in the report of the collector of the port of New York. WHAT TO DO FOR
ITCHING SKINS

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is, the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful that thousands of other physicians have been prescribing it constantly for 20 years. Resinol stops itching instantly, and almost always heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any drugist's.

CLEAR BLOTCHY SKIN
Try resinol soap for a week. You will be surprised to see how it clears and freshens your complexion, even in that short time. Used for the shampoo, it removes dandruff and keeps the hair free, rich and lustrous. This is because it contains the soothing, healing resinol medication.

MAYOR STARTS
SECOND TERM;
SON IN OFFICE

Mayor R. C. Bigbee's first official act in his second term which started this morning, was to dispose of two cases in police court. One drunk and one man arrested for begging drew nominal fines.

Mayor Bigbee's son, Cecil A. Bigbee took charge of the office of the safety department, succeeding Carl Dayton who closed up the affairs of his term last night and turned the office over to his successor.

The first meeting of the new city council will be held next Monday night. At this time the organization will be effected. There has been no inkling regarding the election of president pro tem or whether a change will be made in the clerkship. It is not regarded as probable that J. S. Woodward will be removed as clerk.

President Keller will appoint the members of the various committees and the finance committee will be called upon to act upon the finance ordinance, making the appropriations for the first six months of the new year. Unless a special meeting of council is called, the ordinance will not be passed until Jan. 17. This means that city employees will have to wait until the third Tuesday in January for their mid-monthly pay checks. Having been paid before Christmas for the last half of December, more than three weeks will have elapsed between pay days.

Attorney Fulton then asked the court for a suspension of sentence. He spoke of his intimate acquaintance with Mr. Rawlings and his family, stating that they had lived neighbors for a number of years and that a better neighbor did not exist. He told of his home life, his family ties and that he did not believe that Mr. Rawlings had a dollar in the world. He was sure that if the court would suspend the sentence Mr. Rawlings would begin life anew and would in time pay back all the money to those whom he owed.

Attorney A. A. Stasel, who assisted in the prosecution stated he would speak only in reference to the figures as presented by Mr. Rawlings. He had known the defendant for twenty years and he had always conducted himself as an upright moral citizen. He stood high in the community and among those with whom he had business relations. It was that fact more than any other which kept the disclosure of his transactions from becoming known months before, Mr. Stasel stated that he had been consulted about bringing proceedings against Rawlings which would have resulted in an investigation and disclosure, but that he had taken into consideration the high regard in which the defendant was held and thought that there must be a mistake somewhere and as a consequence the disclosure was not made until some time afterwards.

Regarding the figures presented by Rawlings Attorney Stasel said that he had gone over all of the books with the receivers and he knew and was convinced that the defendant had taken in thousands more of dollars than he had paid out and it was for that reason that he believed the defendant should be punished. Judge Jewell then requested Mr. Rawlings to stand up and after the latter had done so the judge asked him if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced upon him. Mr. Rawlings replied: "I haven't much to say as my attorney, Mr. Fulton, has said about all that can be said in the case. I did what I did with no wrong intent, never meaning to defraud any one. I did not think of wrong doing at any time and today I haven't a dollar in the world."

BLAIR COMPANY IS ABOUT TO SELL
"AG" EQUIPMENT

The Blair Motor Truck company announced today that the manufacture of clover hullers, spreaders and other agricultural implements would be discontinued at the Newark plant and that the company's entire attention would be given to the production of Blair motor trucks and busses.

Manager Wilkinson said that the agricultural implement business will be sold to a concern that will be able to take care of it to advantage and that the local plant will confine its work wholly to the production of trucks and Blair passenger busses such as is now running in Hudson avenue, this city.
A very satisfactory demonstration of the Blair truck was given to a large eastern buyer here this week. A Blair car was overloaded with pig iron and under severe weather conditions while the ground was covered with snow and ice the machine behaved beautifully. In fact the demonstration was pronounced by the visitor a "perfect performance."

time and today I haven't a dollar in the world."
Judge Jewell then said in part: "It is no pleasant duty to pass sentence on this case. I know of the former high regard in which this defendant has been held in the community; I also know of his family ties and his love for his children, for I am a father myself and therefore that makes it all the harder. But I was sent here to try this case and my duty is imperative. There is no doubt of the guilt of this defendant; twelve good men after hearing the evidence have found him guilty and I should have been very much surprised had it been otherwise. This defendant has been carrying on fraudulent transactions for years and it was his demeanor and his conduct among his fellow citizens which kept him from being exposed until the present time. There are no mitigating circumstances. The sentence of this court is, Mr. Rawlings, that you be confined in the Ohio penitentiary."

Mr. Fulton asked for a stay of execution of operation of the sentence in order that he might prepare a petition in error to the court of appeals.
Judge Jewell stated that he was surprised that he made the request and asked Attorney Fulton if he really intended to file such a petition, especially after hearing Mr. Rawlings make the statement in open court, which practically was an admission of his guilt.
Mr. Fulton stated that it was his intention to prepare the petition in error and Judge Jewell then granted a stay of execution of sentence for seven days and required that a new bond be given for defendant's bail, at the same time increasing it from $20,000 to $25,000.

Rawlings being unable to give the required bond was turned over to Sheriff Chas. H. Swank and taken to jail. He passed a comfortable night according to Deputy Sheriff Brown and ate a hearty breakfast, and shortly after received members of his family. He is in hopes of securing bond before the day ends and his attorney is endeavoring to arrange the same but had not succeeded in doing so up until noon.

Rawlings counsel will have until Friday to file the petition in error to the court of appeals. The latter court would then possibly name a new bond until the case would come up for trial, which might be either at the spring or fall term.

14 for London and was last reported as leaving Gibraltar on December 2. Robert Ney McNeely was making his trip to a consulate post for the United States government having been appointed October 18 last and assigned to Aden. His home is at Monroe, La., and he was a member of the North Carolina legislature from 1908 to 1910. He is 32 years old.

The Persia was one of several vessels recently sunk by submarines in the eastern Mediterranean, through which her course to the Suez canal would take her from Malta. On December 24, the French liner Ville De La Clotat was sent to the bottom off the Island of Crete, by a submarine, which according to unofficial British advices, flew the Austrian flag. No advices have been received in New York as to date of which the Persia sailed from London. She departed some time in advance of her advertised date of sailing which was January 15. The voyage from London to Malta ordinarily requires nine days.

The Persia was built in 1900 at Greenock. She has been in the Bombay service since that time.

On account of the danger from submarines to vessels which pass through the Suez canal and the Mediterranean this route has been abandoned by the Japan mail steamship company, which is dispatching its steamships around the Cape of Good Hope. Insurance rates for vessels passing through the Suez have been increased by English underwriters to three or four times the normal figure.

The most widespread disease in the world today is that dread affliction of the teeth called pyorrhea. Nine out of every ten grown persons have it to some extent. You may have it and be unaware of it. Why? Because scientists have proved that the cause of this disease is a germ which inhabits every human mouth, and that thousands have this disease and do not realize it until it reaches the advanced stages of bleeding gums and loose teeth.

Accept the advice dentists everywhere are giving and take special precautions in your daily toilet against this disease. To meet the need for such a daily treatment and to enable everyone to take the necessary precautions against this disease, a prominent dentist has put his own prescription before the public in the convenient form of Senreco Tooth Paste.

Senreco contains the best corrective and preventive for pyorrhea known to dental science. Used daily it will successfully protect your teeth from this disease. Senreco also contains the best harmless agent for keeping the teeth clean and white. It has a refreshing flavor and leaves a wholesomely clean, cool and pleasant taste in the mouth.

Start the Senreco treatment tonight—full details in the folder wrapped around every tube.

Olive Branch No. 34.

Olive Branch Lodge No. 34, met in regular session Tuesday evening Dec. 28 with a good attendance, and only routine business was transacted, one candidate was elected to membership. On Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock the Booster Club members will meet at the Hall. On next Tuesday evening, January 4, there will be a short session of about half an hour, and we will have a social session, and all members are urged to be present and bring some friend with you that you would think would make a good member and get them acquainted, the refreshment committee promises to have something good to eat, so come and see what is doing in Odd Fellowship and have a general good time.

DAUGHTERS OF VETERANS.

Philomena M. Wehrle Tent 25, Daughters of Veterans, held their semi-monthly meeting Thursday evening. The meeting was interesting throughout and business of importance transacted. Comrades Huntington, Hunt, Holler and Wilson were present and gave timely talks, helpful to the work of the new year. One worthy candidate, Mrs. Barr, was initiated and gladly received by the members. Several of the sisters were reported quite sick with the prevailing cold. Communications from the state department were read by the acting secretary Miss Dawson. Comrade King, commander of the G. A. R. kindly invited the Tent to install officers jointly with the G. A. R. and W. R. C. Installation will be at Memorial Hall Sunday, Jan. 2nd, at 2:00 p. m. Every officer should feel it a duty to help make this ceremony a success.

The next regular meeting will be Jan. 11th. Visiting members always welcome.

K. OF P.

Newark Lodge No. 12.

Newark Lodge No. 12, K. of P., wound up the old year of 1910 with a rousing session on Thursday evening when the lodge met in regular session with a large crowd in attendance including several visiting Brothers in the Lodge room.

The regular routine of business was light and the sick members were reported getting along very nicely with very few exceptions.

Under the Good of the Order several visiting Brothers together with some of the members of old 12, gave very interesting talks along the lines of what good the order is doing and what can be done in the future.

After which the Knight Rank was conferred on a class of four esquires, and the work was enjoyed by everybody including the candidates.

Next Thursday evening is the time set for the big time promised by the "Blues" when we will enjoy a banquet and entertainment for the Knights and Ladies. Every Brother should bring their wives with them on this occasion and it will only cost 25 cents for the two or in other words 25 cents for the Ladies and the Knights free. Lodge will convene at seven o'clock on this date so as to give time for the installation of officers before the banquet.

Roland Lodge.

The meeting on Tuesday evening, Dec. 28, was a memorable one from the fact that 21 Esquires were made full-fledged Knights by Roland Lodge, No. 305. The work was well done in the presence of a number of the brethren, including visitors from Alexandria, Centerville, Johnstown and New Stralville. After some little delay in getting the degree work, Captain Wollinsky and a squad of 16 Sir Knights of the Uniform Rank put on a delightful drill, which was much appreciated. Three new applications were received and several others elected to membership by initiation and one card.

Next Tuesday evening the new officers will be installed, the semi-annual password given out, various resolutions made, all the winners of the two prizes announced. After close of the lodge all will adjourn to the big assembly hall on the second floor, where an appetizing supper will be served in honor of the new members taken in during the term. It is earnestly desired that all the new members especially be present, and of course the older ones are just as welcome. Let us all start the new year right and attend this first meeting and resolve to join the "regulars." The Page rank will be conferred on January 11.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and protein-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths, before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

A Liberal Offer By Licking Creamery Company

To the Users of Milk and Cream From Its Retail Wagons.

The Licking Creamery Company begs to announce that until further notice it will make a regular monthly award of two (2) $1.00 sheets of milk tickets upon each of its retail milk wagon routes to private consumers of milk and cream throughout the city.

The awards will be made on the 15th day of each month.

A duplicate receipt stub from every sheet of tickets sold during the preceding month will be placed in a box from which the stubs to receive awards will be drawn by a disinterested party. Each route will be handled separately.

THERE IS BUT ONE CONDITION QUALIFYING THESE AWARDS.

All competitors must have their accounts with the Licking Creamery Company paid in full for the month preceding the one in which any given drawing occurs.

In other words, should a duplicate of one of your ticket receipt stubs be drawn on the 15th of one month it would not receive an award unless your account was paid in full for the month preceding.

This is absolutely the only requirement made, thereby characterizing this proposition as being extremely clean cut and liberal.

We hope it will please the public. Watch for the next drawing. Your name may be among the fortunate ones to be announced in the papers following the next drawing.

Colds Need Attention.

Internal throat and chest troubles produce inflammation, irritation, swelling or soreness and unless checked at once, are likely to lead to serious trouble. Caught in time Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey loosens the phlegm and destroys the germs which have settled in the throat or nose. It is soothing and healing. Pine is antiseptic; honey is soothing—both together possess excellent medicinal qualities for fighting cold germs. Insist on Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. 25c all Druggists.

OVERLY CREDU- LOUS PEOPLE GENERALLY "GET BY"

WHILE HIDE-BOUND STUBBORN ONES MISS BEST THINGS OF LIFE.

Lay Aside Your Prejudice and Give Tanlac a Chance to Help You.

There are a great many susceptible people—overly credulous ones and upon the other hand there are many who are stubborn and and to convince. The former generally "get by" with the good things of life while the latter seldom do until it is overwhelmingly too late. For instance Tanlac the Master Medicine beyond a doubt is the best preparation offered the public today for the relief of catarrh, rheumatism, stomach, liver and kidney troubles, coughs, colds and that run-down-tired-out-no-account-feeling that follows Grippe and Pneumonia, yet there are a lot of people who need Tanlac but who will not try it on account of prejudice and obstinacy, while if they tried it they would find relief. Your neighbors and your friends—your own townspeople have tried Tanlac and pronounce it just as represented and they can easily be consulted by doubting Thomas. Ask Mayor Bay of Granville—ask Mr. Moakler, a well known Newark machinist—ask Mr. Preston, the well known newspaper and magazine agent—ask many others whose names we will furnish but whose authority to use publicly we have not yet secured. Tanlac is being demonstrated at Hall's Drug Store by P. H. Richardson and at Hebron by the Hebron Drug Co. 1-1-1t

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How to Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.
